

World Book: Student

- World Book: Student gives kids and teens resources to start learning and doing their own research on an endless number of topics. The site offers encyclopedia articles, research guide, current events, quizzes, maps and more.
- The website offers research tools to help guide new researchers as well as tips to help teachers who are organizing research projects.
- You do not have to create an account to use this website but having an account allows you to save articles and research to your account for future use

World Book: Student

Use your account to compile all the websites, books, timelines, articles, etc. in one place. Your account is synced to all the World Book resources that require a password. Create a project title and save items you find from World Book: Student with the a timeline from World Book: Timelines and anything extra found on World Book: Advanced.

My Research

- Info Finder offers a basic search bar and a “Find it by...” menu

- The “Find it by...” menu is great for people who just want to browse while the search bar is better for people looking for something specific

Search and Browse

Research Tools section gives step by step help to students research and to teachers that want to help their students.

Back How to Do Research

Research Skills for Students		Educator Research Center
What are Research Skills and Why Do I Need Them? >		What Do I Need to Know to Get Started? >
Plan Your Research >		Teaching Research Skills >
Conduct Your Research >		Assessing the Learning >
Evaluate Your Sources >		The 21st Century Educator: Embracing Web 2.0 In Your Professional Practice >
Compile and Organize Your Data >		21st Century Project Case Study Center >
Present Your Information >		Credits >
Review Your Work >		Bibliography >
Glossary >

Research Tools

Look at the world on an interactive map, the World Book Atlas and compare countries, continents, states or provinces.

Interactive Maps

Explore the interactive map to find World Book articles about interesting places, cities, countries, and more.

World Book Atlas

Explore World Book's rich collection of articles, tables, and multimedia of the world, and find maps showing political, population, economic and meteorological information.

Compare Places

Compare Places around the world, including continents, countries, states, dependencies, and provinces, or explore your favorite places through quick facts, images, maps, flags, and videos.

World Resources

Trivia Quizzes offers students short tests on a variety of subjects. You can focus on quizzes that tackle animals and nature, history, people, holidays, space or get a random quiz!

Trivia Quizzes

Browse through featured biographies, look for specific people with the search bar or look for people within a certain criteria

Biography Center

World Book Student's Biography Center includes thousands of biographies on a wide variety of topics. Start by searching by name, selecting from one or more categories, or choosing from our featured biographies.

Search Biographies:

OR

Select from one or more categories:

Area of work/interest:

Nationality and ethnicity:

Gender:

Time Period:

Featured Biographies

Inventors Explorers Painters

World Leaders Athletes Authors

Philosophers Educators Historians

Photographers

Biography Center

Get the most up to date information on important events happening across the globe. You can also access archived stories by category or basic search.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES

GET THE SCOOP

Search

Search

Archived Stories

- Ancient People
- Animals
- Arts & Entertainment
- Business & Industry
- Conservation
- Crime
- Current Events
- Current Events Game
- Disasters
- Economics
- Education
- Energy
- Environment
- Government & Politics
- Health
- History
- Holidays/Celebrations
- Law
- Lesson Plans
- Medicine

World's Highest Bridge

January 6, 2017

Motorists in southwestern China can get around a little quicker this week, if they are willing to brave stupefying heights to do so. In late December 2016, the Beipanjiang Bridge opened to traffic after three years of construction. If you are afraid of heights, don't look down! China's newest bridge is the highest in the world.

The Beipanjiang Bridge, the world's highest bridge, soars among the clouds above the Beipan River in southwestern China. Credit: © VCG/Getty Images

As you probably know, a bridge is a structure used by people and vehicles to cross areas that are obstacles to travel. Engineers build bridges over lakes, rivers, canyons, and busy highways and railroads. China's Beipanjiang Bridge is a cable-stayed bridge. Cable-stayed bridges are similar to better-known suspension bridges. Both types of

PLAY THE WEEKLY CURRENT EVENTS GAME!

LESSON PLANS

Behind the Headlines

Any questions, comments or concerns are welcome. Please feel free to contact:

Samantha Mercer
Digital Learning & Outreach Librarian
smerc@peacelibrarysystem.ab.ca

Questions?
